TO THE MEMORY OF

JOHN WILLIAM NOWELL
B.A., M.A., Ph.D.

Born August 15, 1883
Died November 25, 1930

For sixteen years an humble servant of
Wake Forest College

A Man, a Genuine Scholar, a superb
Teacher, a Friend in Deed, and a
Christian Gentleman

He Taught"

FOREWORD

More literally than figuratively it may be said that the world of today moves and has its being in applied science. This issue of the Howler being dedicated to an outstanding man of science, we, the staff, have attempted to depict some of his predecessors and contemporaries along with their contributions to the sum of human welfare.

It has not been the purpose of the staff to deal in scientific technicalities, but rather to present, in as vivid a manner as possible, A Story of Science—its birth, development, its achievements—and to suggest some of the possibilities that lie on or near the surface of present day investigation.

Naturally with such a wealth of material in hand, the treatment of so broad a field as that of science necessarily had to be limited in scope. Such being the case, the characters portrayed are connected more with the beginning of some scientific movement than with any one particular event of accomplishment.

The ultimate purpose of science and scientific investigation is to find Truth; "truth is beauty" — "that is all ye know on earth and all ye need to know."

1932 HOWLER

Edison ~1847~1931

• ♦ E-S-T WE FORGET ♦ •

The man in the moon looked down on the earth, and wagged his head at what he saw. A funeral party made its way down a street toward a cemetery, bearing a great man to his tomb. Behind the hearse there rode the sons of Thomas Alva Edison, mourning their illustrious sire. The whole world, or as much as the man in the moon could see, was mourning the loss of the man who had given them so much, and to whom they had given so little in return. The man in the moon saw them turn out their lights. HIS lights, in honor and memory of the man who had let them have light. But the man in the moon knew that with the passage of time they would forget—for had they not always forgotten their benefactors? And sure enough, he saw them go back to their stocks and bonds and washing machines and crying babies, while the frail body of the man who had died lay alone with its glory in the great white tomb, and an oblivious world passed by on its way and laughed and sang and forgot.

"Is this the end?" the man in the moon asked himself. Indeed, it seemed to be the end. What business man thought of Edison when he talked into his dictaphone? What factory worker thought of Edison as he used the inventions of Edison in his work? What housewife remembered the little white-haired man who had invented or perfected her vacuum cleaner, her electric lights, her radio? Who, in a word, remembered Edison?

To the man in the moon it seemed that no one remembered him. But then one night he chanced to look down upon a small college. There, under the glare of one of Edison's incandescent globes, was working a group of students. They were making a book, the college annual. Dedicated to science—it was to make special commemoration of the life and works of Thomas Alva Edison. Night after night the man in the moon watched them, sweating in the autumn heat, shivering in the winter cold, and sweating again in the premature warmth of spring; but always working, toiling, struggling with the details of the perfection of the book. And when finally it was finished, they leaned back in their chairs and stretched their weary fingers and cussed their weary backs. Theirs was the satisfaction of a job well done, of a difficult task well achieved. They had finished their task and their vow to Edison. They had not forgotten.

And when the book was at last issued to the students, and the man in the moon had seen their faces as they read it and were reminded once more of the great Edison, a tear trickled down over the pitted face of the man in the moon and splashed upon the great white tomb with its precious content. And the earth turned on and on.

THE GENTLEMAN ON THE WALL.

SENIOR CLASS POEM

AUF WIEDERSEHEN

THE fleeting shadow of a power unseen
 Visits full hearts and leaves them glad,
 Though tinged with quiet sorrow undefined;
 Fond memories and friendship's sacred tie,
 With cherished hopes seem all entwined;
 Thus hope and sorrow with each other vie.

O Spirit of our College, soul of our group,
 Vision of hope and faith through days to come,
 You were to us a trumpet call of duty—
 A call to you ever to serve and fight
 Unwavering for truth and beauty,
 Sustained by Thee, invincible spirit of might.

We hear the call and sing the answering strain,
 Whose echoes will reverberate unending—
 Glad echoes ne'er made faint by space or time—
 And shall throughout our lives proclaim
 The fires undimmed of love and faith sublime
 Of those who homage pay to thy fair name.

Though Time's oppressive hand may bear us down
 And though we dwell in distant land,
 We pledge devotion time shall never mar;
 In memory shall dwell enchanted cheer,
 And ring, in golden echoes from afar,
 The praises of our Alma Mater dear.

CLASS POET.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1932

ON September 10, 1928, the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-two met for the first time. The class meeting was held in the registrar's office; the purpose was registration. Not all of the class were present at any one time, but they filed in and out on this day while the registrar collected signatures. At the close of the day one hundred and twenty men whose names had never before appeared on the Wake Forest College records had enrolled. A new class had been formed. Men from different counties and different states had met and decided to live together, work together, and play together for four years.

This year forty-six of the original one hundred and twenty will receive degrees from this college; forty-six men who met in September of 1928 will meet again in June of 1932. With them will be seventy-five men who have been added to the roll from time to time—seventy-five men who in the one, two, or three years that they have belonged to this class have become integral parts of it. Today the Class of 1932 is not the original. It is a new class built around the original one as a nucleus. It is a merger of the charter members and a number of men from other classes and other schools who have joined with us.

The history of this class is an eventful one. This, I believe, is the customary way to start a class history. But let me recount a few incidents to prove that after all it is a good one in this case.

Our initiation was according to the custom at that time. It officially began one Wednesday evening in September with the "shirt-tail parade" and was officially closed one evening in April with the "cap-burning" ceremony. This class will be the last in the history of the college to have participated in a "shirt-tail parade," in which it was on the receiving end. This part of our initiation seemed hard at that time, but today it is among our cherished memories. We received an official welcome in a manner that makes its memory permanent. From that time on we were a part of the college.

The class soon held its first official meeting; the purpose was to elect officers. By this time we had become acquainted, and the task was not difficult. R. C. Gwaltney was elected president, H. F. Fuller, vice president, and J. A. Lincherry, secretary. These officers served during the winter of '28 and spring of '29.

From the first day on, the Class of '32 showed a fine display of athletes. This class introduced to the Athletic Association of Wake Forest College such men as Leon Brogden, Elsie Webb, Ed Williams, "Spider" Webb, Dick Newsome, Bob Edwards and Jim Bradley.

Not only in athletics but in other activities this class made its presence felt from the start. The debate teams, the literary societies, the student publications and the various fraternities felt the influence and welcomed the support of the freshmen.

Our experience as freshmen ended with the "cap-burning" ceremony in April. The class spent a busy afternoon carrying wood to the athletic field and preparing for a royal cremation. From that time on we did not consider ourselves freshmen. In the eyes of the world we may not have advanced far that night, but in our own eyes we were a year older—a year more experienced and a year more advanced than the day before.

A last and final class meeting was held to elect officers for the newly born Sophomore Class. W. C. Dowd was elected president, F. M. Averitt, vice president, and J. P. Morgan, secretary.

Then we came back in the fall of '29 as sophomores. Many familiar faces were missing—some new one filled their places. We spent a few weeks becoming acquainted; then once again we were a unit.

President Dowd called a class meeting and initiated a movement which was to us quite startling—a movement to abolish the "shirt-tail parade." We argued some, thought much, and decided that it was for the best. Accordingly we abolished the custom, thus making ourselves the last class to participate in a "shirt-tail parade."

As the year passed by our notables became more notable. Placa, Newsome, Edwards, Brogden, Williams, and Webb became football stars. Brogden, Edwards, "Spider" Webb, and Newsome were outstanding men on the basketball team. Johnson, Yates, and Stroup added much to the track team. John Vernon became a tennis star. Carroll, Deaton, Averitt, and Martin were varsity debaters. In the glee club were Parker, Deaton, Bailey, Strickland, Page, Martin, and Stroup. Morris and Fuller were members of the band. Wrenn was business manager of The Student; Benton was advertising manager of the Old Gold and Black; and Prevatt, Gibson, Kendrick, J. P. Morgan, and C. L. Davis were on THE HOWLER staff.

This year closed with the election of officers for '30-'31. The election returns showed J. A. Wallace, president; J. A. Linclberry, vice president, and C. H. Stroup, secretary.

At the very beginning of our Junior Year we were greeted by a large addition. These new men were mostly graduates of Junior Colleges. Some of the men who were later to play a most active part joined the class at this time.

A list of the activities of the class for this year would show football: Williams, Webb, Brogden, Edwards, Green, and Placa; basketball: Green, Brogden, Edwards, Gardner, and "Spider" Webb; track: Johnson, Fuller, Green, Edwards, Webb, Fox, Stroup, and Manager Burgess; debate: Deaton, Ford, and Carroll; tennis: Griffin, Harrell, and Glenn; cheer leaders: Fuller and Harrell. The class furnished the presidents of several organizations: Ministerial Class, Ford; Sunday School, S. L. Morgan; B. Y. P. U., Carroll. Stroup and Martin were managing editors of the Old Gold and Black, and Prevatt was business manager of THE HOWLER. Deaton, Ford, Wallace, and S. L. Morgan were tapped into the Golden Bough.

At the close of the year L. L. Brogden was elected president for the next year; S. L. Morgan and M. C. Russell were chosen vice president and secretary respectively.

Any class should be at its best during its last year. The Class of '32 undoubtedly was. Practically every campus activity was headed by men of the class. C. L. Davis and Glenn were editor and business manager respectively of THE HOWLER; Stroup and LeGrand edited and managed the Old Gold and Black; and Martin and Prevatt were editor and business manager respectively of The Student. Harrell was president of the Student Council; Green was secretary of the Council; Brogden was president of the Legislature and captain of football, "Spider" Webb was captain of basketball. Hagler and Hocutt were presidents of the Ministerial Class; Barefoot was president of the Medical Class; and Gray was president of the Law Class. B. L. Davis was president of the Sunday School, and John Edwards was president of the B. S. U. Fuller was head cheer leader. The seniors who were tapped into the Golden Bough were J. P. Morgan, Stroup, Brogden, McCracken, T. E. Martin, G. A. Martin, Harrill, Green, Hagler, and Fuller.

Coming to the close of our college career we say without conceit that we are proud of the record we have made. Each man feels a personal pride in the fact that he is a member of this class. We are proud of our classmates; we have studied them from an unique viewpoint, and we feel that we know them. We know what they are, what they stand for, and the type of work they do. We look to the future with confidence—we know that these men will be competent leaders in the world, as they have been here.

We close the final page of our history with a feeling that is hard to explain—a mingled feeling of joy and regret, humbleness and pride, eagerness and hesitancy—and with love and respect for something—someone—that seems to be a kind of combination of our college and class.

—CLASS HISTORIAN.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

TO each member of the class I wish to misquote a few lines of Shakespeare's Sonnet XIV:

"Not from the stars do I my judgment pluck;
And yet methinks I have astronomy,
But not to tell of good or evil luck;
Of plagues, of dearths, or seasons' quality;
Nor can I fortune to brief minutes tell,
Pointing to each his thunder, rain, and wind,
Or say with princes if it shall go well,
By oft predict that I in heaven find;
But from thine eyes my knowledge I derive,
And, constant stars, in them I read SUCH art. . . ."

Guided by the flame which burns within them, I wander through the shades and mists of future years and find you thus engaged:

Captain Leon Brogden, unable to get off his gym credit while in college, had to promise to build a new gymnasium before he could receive his degree. He is now back in Wake Forest for the dedication.

Spider Webb is in Morocco trying to make the Foreign Legion feel at home.

The field of education has claimed a large number of our members. Lee Clark, Nathan Dail, George Baker, Frank Blackmore and O. H. Bolch are The Bored of Education of the Hurricane. Ed Hairfield is president of Atlanta Barbers College. Monk Averitt, B. L. Davis, Howard Gardner, Mac Grogan, J. E. Martin and Dick Moore are members of the Faculty of the School of Fish. G. W. Jordan and W. P. Howell, who have been having some difficulty in disciplining their high school students, have hit upon a plan of wrapping the fresh ones in cellophane. H. M. Hocutt is coaching football in the American College of Physicians.

Jack Lineberry, beset by a larger number of feminine admirers than ever, is trying to figure the mathematical possibility of one man's adding three wives to his family without becoming a polygamist.

Ed Fox is making Fox Furs out of rabbit skins. Lester batchelor, to safeguard the family name, has a wife and thirteen children. Thad Chaney has given up all hope of ever looking like his uncle Lon after having had his face lifted for the ninth time. J. V. Brittle is working with Tom's Toasted Peanuts. Lathan Miller, who is grinding corn into corn, has about run Al Capone out of Chicago. Spence Helms is manufacturing ship accessories.

Fleming Fuller has inherited the Fuller Brush Company and is now engaged in selling its products. He is using Bob Kirkland as a walking example of how well the bristles stay in. A. L. Benton, C. R. Darr, and C. N. Feezor have entered the livestock business. Their slogan is: "Blind Mice for the Home."

Tom Upchurch has married his boss—which all wives are—and has become very gentle and meek. Fitz Davis finished his study of law and became a successful politician. He is now Judge of the Horsesaces at the Wake County Fair.

Howard Phillips and Kenneth Gaddy are famous Interior Decorators. Their specialty is "Wallflowers at Parties."

Dick Taylor, who has succeeded Rudy Vallée as the nation's leading crooner, is using as his theme song "You Don't Know Why I Love You Like I Do."

Harold Deaton, never given to arguing, has answered the call of the wild and is selling Jungle Books. Herschel Ford is using his voice to sell popcorn and peanuts.

Lewis Ludlum, Bill Lynch, R. C. Gwaltney and Otis Hagler are missionaries to China. They run a laundry in their spare time.

R. H. Smith has spent ten years studying Einstein's Theory of Relativity in an effort to secure proof that he is the lawful heir to the makers of Smith Brothers Cough Drops.

Frank Raymond is posing for cartoons for Ballyhoo. To this same magazine Slim Davis is selling the pictures which appeared in the 1932 HOWLER.

John Vernon has made the gangster noise in Chicago quite chic. He is head man in the Racquette.

Gene Snyder, the Book Room Philanthropist, furnishes nine o'clock breakfasts to those who have eight o'clock classes at Wake Forest College.

Peg Benton, Roy Smith, and Phil Padgett have just completed an exhaustive study of poverty stricken people. They have learned that poverty and lightning have a similar effect when they strike.

E. J. Prevatt and Bob LeGrand have become millionaires by investing the interest on the profits which they made from student publications at Wake Forest.

Red Kendrick, Carl Brown and Bill Green are joint proprietors of the Prism Art Studios. Walter McEachern and Shorty Morris have teamed up as the Siamese twins and are touring the country.

Scotchmen J. R. McDaniel, E. W. McManus, W. H. McDonald are wondering why-the-heck girls won't walk home.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

NORTH CAROLINA,
WAKE COUNTY.

WE, the class of nineteen hundred thirty-two, realizing that the pilgrimage is almost over and that soon our existence will be but a happy memory, being in full possession of a sound body and a clear memory, do make and declare this our last will and testament, hereby revoking and declaring null and void any and all wills heretofore made and executed by us.

We request that our funeral service be conducted in Wingate Hall at the chapel hour, in order that all of our friends will be present.

As to our estate, rights, and privileges, we make the following disposition:

ITEM: To the incoming Senior Class we leave the privilege of acting as dignified and sophisticated as they may desire.

ITEM: To the incoming Junior Class we leave the privilege of selecting the Good-Will Week-End Thumb Ambassadors for the College, and we leave specific orders that they be thoroughly instructed in the art of thumbing by Doctors Reid and Pearson, with practical application being included in the course, before they be allowed to represent the College on any corner or at any crossroad in the country.

ITEM: To the incoming Sophomore Class we leave the privilege of wearing all the loud clothing they may think proper and in good taste, and in addition we leave them, absolutely, the privilege of inducting candidates into the Cue Ball Club.

ITEM: To the student body in general we leave the undivided privilege of cussing all and any college publications at any and all times, editors and business managers included. The language for this denunciation is to be developed by Dr. Hubert Poteat, of the Department of Latin; and Dr. G. W. Paschal, of the Department of Greek, is to be the translator of the aforesaid language.

ITEM: To the class in Public Sleeping we give and bequeath the right to snore as loudly as they think necessary in order to enjoy to the fullest the subject under discussion.

ITEM: To the Department of Chemistry we will and bequeath One Hundred Dollars ($100), which is to be paid by popular subscription, for the sole purpose of providing cushions for the seats in the lecture room.

ITEM: To Professor P. H. Wilson we leave the exclusive claim to any and all stray pencils and fountain pens which may be found in the byways and hedges of this institution. The aforesaid writing utensils are to be used for making out checks for student editors and business managers.

ITEM: To the faculty we will and bequeath our sincere appreciation for their thoughtfulness and patience and friendship, which they have accorded us during our stay here.

ITEM: To our beloved and highly esteemed president, Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin, we will and bequeath our undivided cooperation in order to help him achieve his dream of a larger and better Wake Forest.

ITEM: To Professors West, Cru, and Wyatt, we leave the undivided privilege of turning in all necessary and unnecessary fire alarms wherever they may be, with this provision: That if at any time the number of fire alarms per month is less than three, each of the above-mentioned professors is to be fined twenty-five cents by the Bursar, which sum, if any, is to be applied toward having the bell-ringer's Ingersoll repaired.

ITEM: To our beloved Dr. J. H. Gorrell we leave a trust fund of Five Hundred Dollars ($500), the interest from which fund is to be applied on the cost of obtaining a meeting-place for his fraternity, The Amalgamated Sons of Rest.

ITEM: To Dr. C. S. Black of the Department of Chemistry we bequeath the privilege and our best wishes that he will succeed in making a hole in one.

ITEM: To Dr. Cullom of the Department of Religion and Professor Carroll of the Department of Mathematics we leave all hair tonics, greases, combs, or other cosmetics which may be found on the campus upon our departure.

ITEM: To Professor J. L. Memory, Jr., of the News Bureau, we entrust the supervision of the practice teachers of the local high school. We also leave to him sole title to any cigar butts which may be found on the campus after we have gone.

ITEM: All cases of broken or bruised hearts to be found within a radius of nineteen and five-eighths miles as a result of our leaving, we recommend to the care of the embryonic doctors of the medical school of this institution. We further provide that all cases of breach of promise, etc., found within the same radius as above, be turned over to Dr. Gully's protégés in the law school, with the sincere hope that they may lose not a single case.

ITEM: To the Student Council and the Ministerial Class, jointly, we bequeath all bottles and jars, both of pint and half-gallon size, which have been collected by us during our stay here, with the suggestion that they are each worth ten cents in certain quarters of the vicinity, with the added attraction that no questions will be asked.

ITEM: To the incoming Sophomore Class, jointly, we leave the task of initiating the coming Freshman Class into the mysteries of living as hilariously and facetiously as the outgoing Class of 1932 has done in its four years of residence at Wake Forest College.

ITEM: To our parents and friends we leave our sincere promise to use whatever talents we may possess, in such a way that mankind will have been benefited by our existence.

ITEM: The remainder of our property which has not previously been disposed of we will and bequeath to Dean Bryan for his sole use and possession and possible benefit.

ITEM: And we do hereby appoint and constitute Dr. Speas and Prof. Lake sole executors of this our last will and testament.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We, the Class of 1932, through the agency of the testator, have hereto set our hand and seal.

This the 31st day of March, 1932.

HISTORY OF THE JUNIOR CLASS

As I walked through the wilderness of this world I lighted on a certain place which was different from all other places. I looked further and behold I saw buildings surrounded by a stone wall, and moreover in and about these buildings and this wall I saw strange creatures. Some had queer caps with "F" printed thereon while others were rather loud and boisterous. All this second group wore bear-skin coats or knickers. Still another set did I perceive, and these latter ones seemed of a more sedate and orderly bearing. Being interested I called unto me one of these creatures and spoke unto him in this manner:

"Tell me, oh friend, who art thou and all these thy brethren around you and what manner of place beeth this anyway?"

My friend said his name was Junior and these, his other friends, were Freshmen and Sophomores. He spoke also at some length concerning a superior set of humans which he called Seniors. He added the statement also as one who has a vision that he some day planned to be one of the Seniors.

But I, being one who is hardly ever reasonably satisfied, questioned him further as to what he had to do to be called Junior.

Then did Junior with much dignity and show of form get himself up and in the following manner disclose unto me and elevate this, mine ignorance.

"In 1929," said Mr. Junior, "I was as these," and he pointed with a depreciating gesture at the creatures with little caps. "There were only 109 of us then, oh stranger," spake Junior, "and we with the aid of all those belonging to the Upperclassmen Club became less green; and dost thou know, sir, we won the State Freshmen Baseball Championship; and, being also fluent of speech, we did do other wonders and did make ourselves Debate Champions. Some few of our number (and here Junior wept copiously) did run into the giant Exam who, with the aid of Pops and Quiz, did down a few of our brethren. But this happened for the most part only to such of our members as were not worthy. On the other hand the delightful Princess Meredith and the kind brother Fraternity did aid to banish our blues mightily, and though we understood him little, Mr. Student Council did aid often and most materially. Then of a sudden we finished being of the Freshman Club and did go home and work and earn money for pipes, wrist watches, and knickers which we knew we should be able to wear when we became Sophomores.

"Then something new came into our life. Dr. Kitchin became our beloved president and we all did write down in our books that we were the first Sophomores to ever have had Dr. Kitchin as our most benevolent ruler.

"We of course thought ourselves very great on being Sophomores, and with many frolics and great outcries did we oft and repeatedly descend upon a New Freshman Club which had come by Prof. Memory's request to take our old place. We left this soon, however, and did place some of our members on the football and basketball teams. Then still having energy after Dr. Quisenbury's class, we gathered our top coats around us and did enter unto and employ mightily for our ends, one Politics, and by his aid did we make Ed Harrell President of the Student Body.

"But then did we feel satisfied and did work on our books; and now you see, oh stranger, we be good and worthy Juniors this year. This year all clubs have worked as one club to fight a mighty monk called Depression which has come among us. We now solicit Prosperity's aid and we think we will be able to get his as he is said to be just around the corner."

Upon this long and yet interesting discussion coming to a close I arose as one man and spake in this manner unto Junior:

"If what thou tellest me is true, oh Junior, I shall forthwith and without delay send unto this, thy college, my fourteen boys and thirteen girls and make them of the Freshman Club next year. And further, oh Junior, wilt thou look after them for me?" Then answered Junior, and methinks I saw a faint smile upon his lips:

"Oh stranger, I shall be a Senior then and will have no time for such as these, but my Friend Sophomore will do what he can, I am sure."

Then as is generally the case with those who visit Wake Forest College, I left with the realization that I was a wiser and saner man.

JUNIOR CLASS POEM

THE ship that brought us in the deep
Has lost her anchor long ago;
Though tossed by surges high and steep
Our faith will bring her to the shore.

Let surges roll! Let billows toss!
Let every howling storm come here!
The ship that sails with this dear Class
Is clad with steel that shall endure.

Though skies be dark and surges roar,
The duty lies with those on board;
We'll guide her safely to the shore
Where each shall find his own reward.

Soon light will dawn in the eastern sky;
The roaring sea will be at peace;
We'll give ourselves without a sigh,
And some day we will find relief.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

WE set forth upon the Sea of College Life on September 15, 1930. Before we weighed anchor and set sail from the Port of Home, we had armed ourselves with high school diplomas and saturated our minds with enthusiasm from inspiring addresses and were determined in our hearts to reach the port, which lies just across the sea of college life.

We had some difficulties in getting the prow of the old ship going in the right direction, and unaccustomed as she was to deep waters, we encountered some problems which had to be solved before we could get her to settle down and take the waves of classes and quizzes with a greater ease. After we had ventured out from port but a few knots, we found ourselves in the current of the first semester's exams. There we came upon a storm. We shrank with fear as the clouds gathered in preparation for the break of the storm. The old ship twisted and moaned as if she were in pain. We were busy both day and night preparing the boat for the approaching agitation. Scarcely time had we for sleep, but finally the storm broke and passed over, and she settled back to the usual rhythm. Sailing was once again somewhat easier, and we returned to our posts and followed our duties with a feeling of resolution within us to be better qualified to man the vessel through the next gale which we knew we were sure to encounter just off Freshman Tip. But as expectant as we were, and with all the preparation we had made, we realized before the sky grew clear again that this storm was the first real test to determine which members of our crew could withstand the jolts and jars that the sea was giving us and still tend our sails with faces uplifted toward that sought-for port.

And when the splashing of the waves quieted, we made a check-up to see which of our seamen had survived through the first lap of the voyage. We found, as we had expected, that some of our sailors had been hurled overboard by the dashing waves of the gaping sea, and others had been lost through neglect of duty. We were entering the Sophomore Sea and the ship now found itself in water deeper than it had hitherto known. We saw to it that she was more properly steered on this second lap of our four-stop run. We had grown more accustomed to manning our orders and felt more sophisticated as seamen on this sea of unaccustomed life. Our vessel continued to swing and rock to and fro onward, and the breezes of quizzes and storms of exams have shaken us up and induced in several members of the crew a malady known as the "sophomore slump," while others of us are suffering with, or the after effects of, "sophomania," an ailment which usually attacks voyagers through these waters. But we have guarded the old vessel with utmost persistence and now find ourselves just turning Sophomore Point.

Our crew has dwindled, some have deserted, and many have gone overboard since our sails were set; but those of us who have survived the hardships of the first, and most hazardous half of this voyage pause to rest and feed our courage upon past achievements, and gain inspiration for our work.

THE THIRTY-FOURERS

THE Thirty-fourers started on their trek
 Across the wilds and through the wilderness
 To find the gold, which meant to them success,
 To find the beautiful, and worth while things.

The trip across the first big wild was hard,
 With savages attacking everywhere—
 These savages a few did scalp, with clubs
 Did beat, and ridiculed them, one and all.

But once beyond the woods, they took upon Themselves the bows and arrows of
 The savages, became savages themselves,
 To conquer and subdue the Thirty-fivers.

The Thirty-fivers, like the Thirty-fourers,
 Were searching for the gold.—And now the time
 Came for the Thirty-fourers their attacks
 To make: to scalp, to beat and ridicule.

Their job they executed to perfection—
 They did as they were done by, and
 The Thirty-fivers were subdued. A few
 They scalped, and one and all they beat and ridiculed.

The Thirty-fourers soon will mend their ways—
 Will give the Thirty-fivers bows and arrows,
 The right to use them, and will onward press,
 To find new lands and gain the precious gold.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

ON September 14, 1931, the largest Freshman class ever assembled in the history of Wake Forest College arrived on the campus—two hundred and fifty strong. The members of the first class of the second century of Wake Forest's existence came from that area between the Blue Ridge Mountains and the Atlantic. They came from as far south as Georgia, and from as far north as Massachusetts. An unorganized group of "green frosh," they were soon welded into one body, by the Freshman caps and tie—a black felt cap bearing a conspicuous old-gold F, and an innovation, a bow tie of old-gold color.

A little-noticed part of this cap was soon found to figure largely in the life of a Freshman. At the sound of "Button," coming from an upperclassman, it became necessary to place the hands in a specific position, one upon the button of the cap, and flex at the hips, knees, and ankles. This performance turned out to be slightly embarrassing in public places.

Before the first week of college life had passed, the "Freshman rally night" was celebrated. All Freshmen were gathered in the gymnasium and divided into four groups: athletics, public speaking, music, and dramatics. Each group was then instructed to entertain the upperclassmen with its particular performance. After this the famous "shirt-tail parade" was reviewed for the Freshmen, and they were taught to sing "How Green I Am." When the parade had wound through the streets of Wake Forest and the Freshmen had played the entertainer rôle for about three or four hours, they were taken to a show as recompense.

Registration and matriculation now being over, the innocent greenhorns were faced with many new and hitherto unheard of expenses, showing themselves in the form of fees for hymn books, chapel seats, and floor changes. Bath tickets and radiator keys were also being sold by the Sophomores at reduced prices. Several members of the new class saw fit to avail themselves of these tempting bargains before it was too late.

The officers chosen to lead this class through its first year were elected after the members had emerged from the cloudy whirl in which they had been left by the initiation into college life. They are: President, Rivers Hanson; Vice President, Charles Leonard; Secretary, Henry Liles; Treasurer, Charles Davis.

One cause of pride in the class of '33 is the fact that their football team, the "Baby Deacons," took the state championship, not losing a game in the season's play.

The members of this class have not idly put off their work until the future, but have entered into all forms of extra-curricular activities, such as literary societies, debating, student publications, athleties, and the orchestra. The class members are working and hoping to bring about the best results possible, and this first year of college life will always be fondly remembered by the class of '35.

CLASS HISTORIAN.

FRESHMAN CLASS POEM

O!1, eager youth swarms up the hill
 Along the rugged trail of years,
 Ascending in the shade until
 The white peak, flashing in the sun, appears!

The weary wandered home again,
 Down to the sheltered lowlands, where
 They watch us face the winds and rain—
 A few fell sprawling through the empty air!

The vista of the hills around
 Us ends where mountains stand alone—
 We must walk surely on this ground,
 Lest, seeing mountains, we forget the stone!

Although this slope seems rampant now,
 We've only climbed the first long height;
 We see, who look from this hill's brow,
 Far summits shining in the early light!

Our guide is leading on the trail
 To white fields where the wild wind blows.
 Who, standing with us here, will fail
 To follow onwards to eternal snows?

MEDICAL CLASS HISTORY

IT is with some hesitancy that I attempt to write the history of the Medical Class of 1932. I know without doubt that there are assembled here men of ability, who will become the great and honored physicians of tomorrow. Knowing this, and realizing that the task of recording their deeds should go to one more competent, I am loathe to begin such an undertaking. But, with the sincere hope that I may in a meager way fulfill my duties as Historian of my class, I shall record here some of the outstanding events thus far in our medical career.

We were very happy and carefree as we coasted along in the routine way of pre-medical students. To be sure, we felt that our tasks were hard. We even boasted to those of our fellow students, who had not yet attained the heights of our achievement, that when they struck the "cat" their playing days would be over. Surely we felt that we were "Does" already, and only needed to be supplied with the inevitable pill case and prescription pad to be launched into the world as healers of men.

This idea continued to prevail, and when in September, 1930, we began our work in dissecting we were even more assured of our superior knowledge, for even Dr. Vann began to consult us on various phases of anatomy. Of course, as becomes all good physicians, we assumed a professional air and proceeded to answer his many questions in a way which seemed to us, in view of our previous training, absolutely authentic. But alas, the joke was on us. He was not, as we had supposed, ignorant of his anatomy and consulting us for information, but had actually, without any remorse of conscience, steered us far from shore and had set us adrift on a whirling sea of anatomical facts. Needless to say, we set about to swim ashore.

This was a task not easily accomplished, for we were only beginning to become acclimated to our new surroundings when "Dr. Brad" came on the scene. He forthwith convinced us, against our better judgment, that it was equally as essential that we acquaint ourselves with the origin of this mighty torrent. We, therefore, set about to learn the truth concerning the beginning of our "nautical" troubles and we called that Embryology. Now, we thought, surely our limit has been reached, and soon we shall be adorned with that coveted "M.D." which will show that we have stood the test.

But no sooner had we begun to revel in the fact that we were about to reach shore than Dr. King made his appearance in a rapid, rushing, whirling torrent and accosted us with the chemical constituents of our watery habitat. We called this, for short, "P. Chem." We managed in some way to stem the tide and after a respite of three brief months were confronted by Dr. Carpenter with what he called the abnormal sea of facts. Again we were in a jam, for every wave ran in the opposite direction and the tide never came in. We called this Pathology, and I am sure that had it not been for the tireless efforts of Dr. Mackie, who, under the glaring banner of Physiology, sought to counterbalance some of these abnormal currents, we would never have come out alive.

Be that as it may, it is all over now, and though we are soon to plunge into an even more boisterous sea, we hope that our experiences here will bring us safely through.

HISTORY OF THE LAW CLASS

ONCE upon a time there were some pupils in the academic school, who conceived the idea that this world would not stand any longer if they, as barristers, did not save it. Their idea was that everything seemed possible to a lawyer. So with this avowed purpose they set out to convince the college authorities that they should be permitted to enter the Law School. Finally, these young, intelligent and very promising hopefuls, after much argument, and the exercise of their embryonic persuasive ability, and the satisfactory completion of the sixty hours of required work, obtained admission in the Law School.

Their first baptism of law took place early the next morning, under the leadership of no less a personage than the elderly, white-headed father of North Carolina law supervision and instruction, Dean N. Y. Gulley, whose subject was Blackstone's Commentaries. After several dissertations on Common Law principles and practice and the mention of many other strange and queer things, among which was "Brennell Bull II," this group of pupils was directed across the hallway. Here, much to their pleasant surprise and great satisfaction, they were wisely instructed all about a man and his wife and what part each should play toward the maintenance and upkeep of a happy as well as a legal family. This priceless instruction and careful considered information was handed out and drilled into their thick heads by a most beloved professor of law, Prof. R. B. White. Through this man, Gentleman and Scholar, minds are made legal.

There was a whisper started around the classroom concerning some sort of thing called a contract. Where could instruction about this all-important subject be had? Back across the hall was the reply. So this group of travelers returned to the room formerly occupied and there, standing in front of the class, was a man about five feet ten inches tall, a patch of gray hair around the edge of his head and a very delicate sprig projecting in front, dressed in a gray suit and gray shoe string necktie to match. This noble professor did his duty toward prohibiting green grass from making any headway under their feet (if they were standing on their feet). Renowned the South over for his unquestionable ability as a valuable citizen and well-informed teacher, Prof. Edgar W. Timberlake was very instrumental in aiding this class to know something of the Law.

This is only a brief suggestion as to what took place on that first day in the Law School. Blackstone, Domestic Relations, and Contracts, all quickly changed to some other course, and that in turn changed to another, until the members of the class really thought they knew some Law. Incidentally this fact may be well founded, for in their Senior Year thirty-three out of the sixty-nine men who were admitted to the practice of the Law by the North Carolina Supreme Court, had received instruction at Wake Forest College Law School. But, alas these thirty-three members were quickly reminded of the fact that to know Law was to practice it. However, when the end of the year has arrived and each man wings his way to his respective locality and thereabouts hangs his shingle on some obscure office building, he will rely on the principles of true citizenship so thoroughly instilled in him at Wake Forest.

It would not do justice to this class if we neglected mentioning that the majority of its members are recognized on the campus as real leaders, and as evidence of such we point with pride to the president as well as the vice president of the student body. The class is very proud of the noble manner in which some of its members have shown such great skill in athletic circles. On the gridiron, the basketball court, tennis court, or baseball field, there are several members who have distinguished themselves very creditably and become real assets to this class.

There is no doubt in the minds of clear thinking people that this group of future statesmen will not be satisfied in life unless they are given a chance to show their real ability for true and pure leadership. It is sincerely hoped that the paths of these young lawyers will not be filled with any obstacles that they cannot surpass, and that they will be happy ever after.

REVIEW OF '30-'31 DEBATE SEASON

THE Varsity Debate schedule this year consisted of twenty intercollegiate debates. Of these nine were won, five were lost, and six were non-decision debates. The percentage of debates won was sixty-four. In all contests with North Carolina teams Wake Forest debaters were winners. Wake Forest was the only school to defeat State and Davidson in North Carolina. Our North Carolina record gives us the mythical state championship in debating. In the contest of Province of South Atlantic held at Farmville, Va., Wake Forest won first place in the Extempore Oratorical Contest. All debates were on the subject of "Free Trade" except the contest with Western State Teachers' College which was on "Disarmament."

SCHEDULE

State College (twice)—Both won by Smith and Deaton.
 Davidson College—Won by Smith and Deaton.
 Virginia State Teachers' College—Smith and Deaton. Won by V. S. T. C.
 Waynesburg College—Ford and Carroll. Won by Wake Forest.
 Temple University—Ford and Smith. Won by Wake Forest.
 Emory University—Ford and Grogan. Won by Wake Forest.
 Richmond University—Smith and Deaton. Won by Wake Forest.
 Furman University—Smith and Deaton. Won by Furman.

Non-decision debates:

State College (twice)—Bridges and Mitchell; Brown and Deaton.
 Catawba College—Brown and Pruitt.
 Asheville Normal—Hyde, Hagaman and Burns.
 Western State Teachers' College—Burns and Carroll.
 Emory University—Smith and Deaton.
 Convention of Southern Association of Teachers of Speech, at High Point—Won by Wake Forest.
 University of Alabama—Won by University of Alabama.
 Tennessee Wesleyan—Won by Wake Forest.
 North Texas State Teachers' College—Won by Texas.
 Smith and Deaton debated against these teams. Wake Forest tied with N. C. State for second place, but had previously defeated N. C. State twice and Tennessee Wesleyan once. In reality Wake Forest had a clear claim to second place.
 Wake Forest tied for first place in declaiming. E. T. Harrell was the representative.

MINISTERIAL CLASS OFFICERS

CLASS HISTORY

ON Wednesday evening, September 23, 1931, the Ministerial Class held its initial meeting in what has since proven one of the most successful years during its long history. From the very beginning there has been the finest sort of fellowship among the officers and members of the class. Every one started out with the sole intention of doing more for the advancement of kingdom work than before. We began our work with seventy-four men and have been so fortunate as to have practically all of them continue with us through the year. After a few preliminary meetings, we were fortunate, as usual, to have Dr. Cullom begin with his series of lectures such as: "The Minister in the New Day," "The Minister for This Day," "Facing the Issue," "The Minister as a Student," "The Minister and a Community," "The Minister's Temptations," and others equally as fine.

The Ministerial Class, like our Literary Societies, gives its members the opportunity, from time to time to get on their feet and express themselves, that quality or ability which our ministers so badly need today. Our devotional services are conducted by different members of the class and each one is given the opportunity to take part in the song service, another vital part of the work of the minister. Besides the privilege of having Dr. Cullom lecture to us each Wednesday evening and that of taking part in the devotional services, we have been privileged to have such distinguished visitors as Drs. L. R. Scarborough, E. M. Potat, L. P. Leavell, and others to visit us during the year.

There have been quite a few changes in the personnel of the organization, but there has not been a single break in the work. We began with Mr. O. J. Hagler as president and Mr. John Edwards as vice president. Mr. Hagler was graduated at the close of the first semester and Mr. Edwards, a member of the senior class, is not in school this spring. Mr. H. M. Hocutt was elected to the presidency and Mr. F. R. Poplin to the vice presidency. These new men are getting whole hearted support of the members and are carrying on the work in a very worthy and commendable way.

Those of us who are members of the senior class pass on the torch to those who follow in our stead, and we bid them God's speed in the great work of the kingdom.

DEACONS ENTIRELY COVERED BY CAROLINA TAR

Following the usual custom Wake Forest's Demon Deacons opened their 1931 season by engaging Carolina's Tar Heels at Chapel Hill. The Tar Heel machine which had been considered rather "rusty" by some people seemed to be oiled to perfection on that afternoon. 11,000 fans saw this well-gearred machine led by Johnny Branch and "Rip" Slusser run over the Deacons to the tune of 37-0. The Deacons' work was featured by Tom Cornwell, veteran center, and Ed. Shinn, Soph fullback. The Deacons were thoroughly "whitewashed" by Carolina Tar when the game ended.

DEACONS UNABLE TO STAND UP UNDER WIND OF PURPLE HURRICANE

For a while following the Carolina game the Deacons seemed to have quite a bit of the tar still on them. This seemed to hinder their progress and as a result they were unable to stand up under the pressure of a powerful "hurricane" from South Carolina. Furman met the Deacs at Gastonia and surpassed them in every phase of the game. The Purple Hurricane depended upon an aerial attack and the Deacons went down under the force of the attack. Hutchins, quarterback, and Wilson halfback, featured for the Deacons. When the debris was removed the Deacons were floored by a 36-0 score.

WOLFPACK SCATTERED BY DEACON VENGEANCE

After the Furman game the Deacons seemed to "come out o' the fog." The annual Fair Week Classic was played on Riddick Field and the history of the past year repeated itself. The Wolfpack was completely scattered. On a rain-soaked field the Deacons—being used to "duckings"—scored after a sixty-yard drive led by Wilson, Edwards, and Shinn. The team functioned like a million-dollar machine. Led by the veteran quarterback, Hutchins, the backfield bucked up by the stalwart line, made a slaughtering, slithering, slashing attack and the goal line was the stopping point. Webb and Cornwell performed beautifully in the line. Although the score was not so large, the Deacons outplayed the Pack in every phase of the game and Captain Brogden had a team to be proud of. When the final whistle blew the score was 6-0.

BLUE DEVILS DISASTROUSLY ROU'T DEACONS

In spite of the excellent work of Captain Brogden, Dupree, Shinn, and Wilson, the Deacons were unable to cope with the powerful attack launched by Wallace Wade's Blue Devils. The Old Gold and Black says: "... it was Brewer all the way through. The 'Kidd' was in his glory and did about all the work that was accomplished by the Blue Devils, sweeping for a net gain of over two hundred yards, scored four touchdowns, and kicked two extra points." 'Nuff said, Ladies and Gentlemen. The score was 28-0.

OVER THE LINE AT STATE

"DOPE BUCKET" UPSET IN ERSKINE GAME

Led by Captain Brogden, Williams, Webb, Wilson, and Bradley, the Deacons downed Erskine by the score of 13-0, thus upsetting the "dope bucket" in a great big way. By all the signs of previous games in which Erskine had participated the Deacons were "doped" to lose. This was the last home game for the Deacons and every available ounce of energy was put forth. The Erskine charge was stopped early in the game and the Deacon charge began. Although the opponents threatened to score several times the Deacon line held them and they were unable to "put it over." Wake Forest's line did beautiful work and the backfield made large gains through holes opened by the line. In previous games both Furman and Davidson had been tied by Erskine—and Davidson had tied Duke.

DEACONS RIP THROUGH BLUE HOSE FOR 12-0 VICTORY

For the first time in six games the Demon Deacons were able to register a victory over the Blue Hose from Presbyterian College. This game, one of the most thrilling of the year, was played in the World War Memorial Stadium in Greensboro. The Deacon work was featured by Captain Brogden, Williams, Webb, Dupree, and Green, Captain Brogden's running mate, in the line; and Bradley, Wilson, and Hutchins in the backfield. The touchdowns were made by Captain Brogden on a pass from Wilson and the last one on a 48 yard dash by Dunc Wilson, one of the flashiest halfbacks ever to appear on a North Carolina gridiron.

DEACONS OVERWHELMINGLY CRUSHED BY OGLETHORPE

After tasting victory in the two preceding games, the Deacs journeyed to Atlanta to meet Oglethorpe. Soon, however, the realization came that the Deacons were doomed to defeat. The game was rather slow and uninteresting. Near the end of the first half Oglethorpe began a drive that netted them the large end of a 37-0 score. The Deacons threatened to score once when Bill Green ran 33 yards, carrying the ball to the two yard line, but Wake Forest was unable to put it across.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF IN THANKSGIVING CLASSIC

The "Ole superiority Complex" of the Deacons seemed to arise again in this game. For the eleventh consecutive time the Demon Deacons conquered the Davidson Wildcats and sent them home quite tamed. Captain Brogden very fittingly ended his football career by carrying the oval across the goal line for the winning touchdown. The game was hard-fought and thrilling. The Wildcats had no notion of giving away a game and they put up plenty of fight. Dupree, Williams, and Webb, and most assuredly Captain Brogden paved the way for the Deacon backfield in its attack. Dunc Wilson was a most consistent ground-gainer—fitting here and there to continually baffle his opponents and place the ball in new territory. His motto seemed to be "en avant." This game marked the ending of football careers for several Deacons. Brogden, Williams, Webb, Dupree, and Hutchins, served their Alma Mater well on the gridiron and their names will go down in Deacon history as upholding the ideals of their Alma Mater in a noble manner.

The season of 1931 was a most successful one for the Wake Forest Freshmen. This season saw the championship brought to Wake Forest. Led by Captain Zeno Wall the Frosh played wonderful heads-up football. Captain Wall seemed to instill something into his team that no other person could do. When he played the team was an entirely new team—their spirit was a never-dying one and they always came through. Associated with Captain Wall there were other outstanding players who will be excellent material for the varsity. Some of them are: Wall, Myers, Holton, and Boney in the backfield; and Swan, Chetty, Faulkenburg, DeAngelis, Moore, Reinhardt, and Hardee in the line.

Here's to the best Freshman team ever! Keep it up, fellows! Remember—"Old Gold and Black is ever waving high."

Led by Captain "Spider" Webb, the Deacons gave the best they had. Associated with Captain Webb were Malloy and Mullern, hold-overs from the 1931 Baby Deacs. Joyner, Earp, and Barnes, classy forwards who were the delight of Deacon fans. Owen, a "sight for sore eyes" at the forward position and Captain-elect for 1933, and "Stork" Swing, another valuable Soph.

Mulbern was high scorer for the season.

The Baby Deacon basketball team was unlike the Varsity. The Frosh were slightly "under the weather." Led by Bob Forney, the season's high scorer, the Baby Deacs played magnificent ball in spite of the fact that the scores were against them in most of the games. Associated with Forney were Graham, a flashy forward, Gold, another "fleetfoot," Edwards, Clark, and Caledman. These men will be looking forward to the 1933 season when they can wear the Varsity uniforms and no doubt the Varsity will be looking forward to their support with a great deal of enthusiasm.

The 1931 Varsity Baseball season was a little under par. It was said to have been the worst season experienced by the Deacons in eighteen years. Under the capable leadership of Coach John Caddell the Deacons have had baseball teams any school should be proud of and the prospect for the future is very bright indeed. No finer coach could be found anywhere than Coach Caddell. The men who play for him are as fine as their coach.

The Deacons won nine out of twenty-four games during this season or about one-third. Out of Big Five games this same percentage is also true.

Led by Captain "Jit" Benton the Deacons waded through an unusually heavy season. Associated with Captain Benton were some of the finest men ever to play on a diamond. Joe Meador as chief "pill-tosser" was a wonder to behold. Backing Joe was "Lefty" Barnes, of basketball fame. These two men were the mainstay of the Deacons in the "tossing" line. Behind the bat was "Ole Faithful," Johnny Hicks. Monk Joyner, who sprung from a long line of Deacon ballmen, followed in the wake of his Father and brothers and held down first base. On second base one was apt to find Eustace Mills, who won the hearts of his fellow students on the gridiron and who was equally as good on the diamond. Near Mills was "Little Pal" Earp. This fellow was a wonder as he stretched his short legs in chasing balls that seemed beyond his reach; and, like the Northwest Mounted, he "always got his ball." Captain Benton, in spite of his weight, was very adept at the third base position. In the outfield there was Bethune, Cobb, and Doug White. No better outfielders could be found. These men backed up Coach "John" in a wonderful way and Wake Forest was proud of her men wearing the "Old Gold and Black" on the diamond.

Like the Varsity the Freshmen were slightly "under par" during the 1931 season; but, again like the Varsity, they won one-third of their games, or three out of nine. Although the season's scores were not so large, the Baby Deacs played a fine season and the Varsity will be looking forward with keen interest to the coming of some of these men to their ranks.

The Baby Deacs opened their season by engaging Coach Peale Johnson's team from Raleigh High. Those Raleigh boys are hard to beat and the large end of the score went to them. The next game was also played with a Raleigh team, although they were quite a different bunch of fellows. N. C. State Freshmen also "walloped" our Baby Deacs to the tune of a 9-5 score.

Shortly afterwards a tune was heard which resembled "The Camels are Coming" and truly the Campbellites were on their way to give the Baby Deacs a 11-1 "lickin'."

Having been defeated the "Old Gold and Black" team decided that four losses were enough and leaving that "Ole inferiority complex" behind they "licked" N. C. State Freshmen 11-8, thus proving that they could win when they wanted to.

It felt so good to win a game that the Deacons did the same thing again. This time Campbell College was the victim. They were on the small end of a 10-5 score.

The rest of the season is "nothing to speak of" so far as victories are concerned—except for one thing and that one thing is a pretty big thing. After having been conquered by Carolina and Duke the Baby Deacs retaliated by emerging victorious over Carolina in a return game. Really folks, you can't down the "ole" Wake Forest Spirit.

Duke University won the last game of the season by the score of 6-1 but the Deacons were not downhearted. Anyway, one can't win everything!

With the excellent pitching of "Spike" Hill, Bill Herring, and Jim Allgood the other Deacons were able to play a good game. Malloy, behind the bat, was able to pick-up most anything the "tossers" put over. Humphrey on first played an excellent game as did Jim Partin on second and Joe Mulhern, of basketball fame, on third. Mitchell at shortstop was always there when the ball came over. The outfield was composed of Harrison, Perkins, Tucker all of whom gave their best.

State Track Meet

First in Javelin.....	JOHN DUPREE
Second in Javelin.....	SAM WHITESIDE

THE 1931 Deacon track season was a little "under par." Roy Kinsey, who has been termed by some to be a "one-man track team," was not with the team this season and his services were sorely needed in the meets. "Ty" Jones, a "sky-high" pole-vaulter, was also absent and he was likewise needed very badly.

In spite of the absence of these men the Deacons had some excellent material in John Dupree, Byrd, Fuller, Cox, Johnson, Washburn, Whiteside, and others. Captain John Dupree, of football fame, exposed dynamic power as he hurled the javelin. Captain Dupree won first place in the javelin throw in every meet of the season and successfully defended his title in the State meet at Greensboro. For the fourth consecutive time this title came to Wake Forest by the successful hurling of Dupree. The Deacons also won second place in the javelin throw—this honor going to Sam Whiteside.

Byrd, following in the footsteps of Kinsey, was high-scorer for the season. He was a versatile fellow, being entered in the pole-vault, high-jump, broad-jump, and high hurdles.

Fuller, an excellent track man, was kept out most of the season by an injury received previous season. However he was wholly "in there" when he did participate and won his letter.

Ed Fox was like a streak of lightin' as he ran the mile. Ed and Whiteside came to the Deacons from Mars Hill and both were "corking good" men on the field.

Johnson and A. V. Washburn were entered in the pole-vault, high-jump, and broad-jump and showed exceedingly fine promise for the 1932 season.

The Deacons, in spite of reversals in Big Five circles, had a successful season in many ways. However there is a promise of a good season in '32. Watch 'em go!

VARSIY TENNIS

BY far the largest and most extensive season ever experienced by tennis squads at Wake Forest College occurred during 1931-1932. The varsity team was greatly strengthened by the return of John Vernon, Burlington, N. C., who played No. 1 and the addition of stars from last year's freshman team including D. B. Bryan, Jr., who played No. 4 this year, Robert W. Hutchins, Spencer, N. C., who played No. 5, and Sam Buxton, Newport News, Va., who played No. 6. The other two positions on the varsity were held by Capt. Frank Fletcher, Raleigh, N. C., No. 2, and William Glenn, Red Spring, N. C., who played No. 3; both of whom returned after playing last year.

In the second year of the existence of a frosh team, a wealth of promising varsity material presented itself. The 1932 freshman team was composed of Capt. Rivers Hanson, Wilmington, N. C., No. 1; Floyd Fletcher, Raleigh, N. C., No. 2; Charlie Davis, Morganton, N. C., No. 3; Zeno Wall, Shelby, N. C., No. 4; Jimmie Wilkinson, Wake Forest, No. 5; and Thurston Powell, Wilmington, No. 6. In a practice match with Campbell College on March 30, the frosh chalked up their first victory. The entire team made a very creditable showing throughout the season, and particularly against Duke, when they played them at Wake Forest on April 14. Their complete schedule is presented below.

On April 2, the varsity made a clean sweep of a match with Rocky Mount Tennis Club; Vernon, Fletcher, Hanson, and Glenn in singles, and Vernon and Hanson, and Fletcher and Buxton in doubles winning by decisive scores. The Deacon varsity barely lost a hard fought 4 to 3 match on April 5 to South Carolina. Vernon and Fletcher won both their singles and doubles matches to account for "Wake's" three points. On April 6, John Vernon took the Blue Devil No. 1 player for a ride, to win the one point for Wake Forest out of the nine played. The match went to Duke, 8 to 1. In a return match on April 18, in Durham, the Blue Imps blanked the deacons; Capt. Fletcher dropping a hard fought match to Garber, No. 2, Duke, scores being 6-3, 6-8, 9-7.

The varsity schedule includes two matches with the National Team Champions, University of North Carolina. Although the Deacon netters were blanked when they played at Wake Forest on April 8, several matches were very close; John Vernon extended Wilmer Hines, Nationally Ranking Star, to three sets, scores being 6-4, 6-8, 6-2.

The call of the Annual Spring North-South Pinchurst Tennis Tournament with its galaxy of collegiate and Davis Cup Stars beckoned on April 11, and lured four Wake Forest hopefuls within its "brackets." After one round of play in singles and doubles, all four were wiser, but none the less ambitious. As a sidelight to the main results at Pinchurst, it is whispered that "the Manager lost his rep."

On April 15, the Deacon netters carried out their usual policy and swamped State College 8 to 1. Vernon, Fletcher, Glenn, Hutchins, Buxton, in singles and Vernon and Fletcher, Glenn and Buxton, and Bryan and Hutchins in doubles accounted for victories.

The largest number of players in the history of Wake Forest, entered the State Collegiate Tournament on April 21-23, when six varsity players and five frosh carried "Old Gold and Black" into Chapel Hill. Very creditable showing was made by a large number of Deacon netmen; one frosh doubles team, Hanson and Fletcher, advancing to the semi-finals round before being eliminated.

The Spiders from the University of Richmond wandered down into the Tar Heel state on April 25, and the Deacons promptly showed them that a tennis court is no place for a "Spider" web. The same Deacons that tallied for "dear old Wake" against State, won their matches to give an 8 to 1 victory to the Home racquet wielders.

As the 1932 HOWLER went to press, two Deacon racquetceers were still in the Annual Tar Heel Tournament at Raleigh. Capt. Fletcher had advanced to the quarter-finals round in the singles tournament, and John Vernon and his doubles partner, Prof. Memory, had advanced to the semi-finals round in the doubles tournament. Several matches remain to be played, but a victorious season is expected.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

It is a desirable custom of years' standing that each Editor shall acknowledge the efforts of those who have contributed to the success of his book.

This year we gladly conform to this custom, for we feel that we have been especially fortunate in having the wholehearted and competent co-operation of a most capable staff.

In addition to the whole staff whose efforts have made this book possible, we especially acknowledge the aid of Len Hagaman, an outstanding member, of M. F. Dunbar of Dunbar and Daniels, photographers; of Kenneth Whitsett of the Charlotte Engraving Company; Howell and Charles Smith and Guy D. Gowan, all of Edwards & Broughton Company, printers of the 1932 Howler. Give them a big hand, they deserve it.

BUILDERS DREAMS

VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to interpret the ideas of the Staff and create in material form their vision.

Such able coöperation is one of the "visions" which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.

You, too, may be proud of your annual.
